BACKGROUND

I am an individual that strives for greatness. Doing any task that has been given to me to my upmost ability is a key principal of mine. I am an individual that knows when to accept mistakes and I am not afraid to ask for help when necessary. Being an Applied Computer Science in an international school, I have been able to develop strong communication skills with people of diverse backgrounds though my coursework and team projects. I have also been able to earn experience in presenting technical concepts to non-technical audiences which also enhanced my communication skills.
